WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The Republican National Committee today decided to hold the 1916 convention in St. Louis. The place will be selected later. A proposal to hold the convention later in June was defeated by a vote of 25 to 15.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Interest here today turned to the Republican National Committee in session here to decide on the place for holding the 1916 convention next year and to argue other preliminary matters connected with the convention.

The outlook is favorable. It was the committee of St. Louis, which has been working hard for some time, that secured the selection of the city. A general feeling of confidence in the city was expressed by the committee. The committee also decided to hold the convention in June.

FARMERS INSTITUTE IN THE TABERNACLE AT SCOTSDALE MEET

Building Will be Turned Over for Friday and Saturday.

WILL ACCOMMODATE BIG CROWD

This Was a Puzzling Question Until
It Was Taken Up With the Executive Committee; Building Will Not be Dedicated Until January 2.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Dec. 14.—The Scottdale Farmers' Institute on Friday and Saturday has struck it lucky and a puzzling question that has been all the time perplexing the committee in charge is solved. Peterson Business College Hall was the only available place at hand in which to hold the institute, but while it is a large hall and was given by L. O. Peterson very willingly, it was feared all along that it would not be large enough to accommodate the record breaking crowds that attend the institutes in this place, coming from long distances from Westmoreland and Fayette counties.

Now arrangements have been made to hold the institute in the big tabernacle in Loucks Park. Mr. Odean, the representative in charge for Evangelist George T. Stevens, said that the tabernacle would be completely enough to accommodate the farmers' institute. It will not be dedicated until January 2 and those in charge were very ready, when the matter was presented, to give the community some benefit from the big building before the edifice is dedicated.

The tabernacle, which will be heated with immense stoves which have been put in, and which has a large platform and comfortable seats, so that the crowd can be handled nicely. One of the lecturers, "Bob" Reed, who has been here before, and who comes with a new set of lectures, is sufficient to draw a tremendous crowd. L. B. Dorsett and L. J. Worthen are two other quality farm lecturers that will draw.

FUNERAL HELD.
Funeral services were held Monday over the body of Mrs. Sarah Jane Millen, aged 77, who died at her home on Walnut avenue, on Friday night. The deceased had been in ill health for some time past, but her fatal illness lasted her only on Wednesday. She leaves one child, and married except one, Irwin, who made his home with his mother.

HOME FROM HUNT.
R. L. Laughrey has arrived home from a several weeks' hunt in Cameron and Potter counties, but with

NO MORE BACKACHE NO MORE MISERY

Hundreds of people have been relieved of the agonies caused by weak, diseased or clogged-up kidneys by using Solvax, the new remedy that quickly reaches the source of all kidney complaints.

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides or have any signs of kidney or bladder trouble—such as rheumatic pains, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired and run-down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Solvax will quickly and surely relieve you of your misery. Solvax is probably the most potent remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys get out all the uric acid and poisons left by the blood, and renders the kidneys and urinary organs clean, vigorous and healthy.

Many of the best druggists say that no medicine ought to be paid for unless it does the user some good. Solvax therefore sells under a positive guarantee to quickly relieve the worst cases of kidney trouble or your money refunded. Try Solvax today and if you cannot see and feel a decided change for the better just go to the druggist from whom you bought it and tell him you want your money back and he will return it without question. This is the strongest argument that can be offered in behalf of any medicine. Solvax is sold in Connelville and vicinity by A. A. Clarke and other leading dealers.—Adv.

no luck in bagging big game which was one of the reasons for his coming. Mr. Laughrey says that he got a nice lot of birds, however, and that bear and deer are expected to be somewhat plentiful. On his trip Mr. Laughrey stopped at State College, where his son, J. D. Laughrey, is attending college. The young man expects to be home on Friday for his Christmas vacation.

Purely Personal

As regards habits of living, that, of course, is purely a personal matter with each of us.

But some folks go on for years wondering what causes their nervousness, heart flutter, biliousness, headache and various other ailments.

A frequent, though often unsuspected cause, is coffee drinking. This, because coffee contains a powerful, habit-forming drug, caffeine, (about two and one half grains to the average cup) which, taken regularly, finally drifts many into ill health.

Think it over.

Of course, it's your own affair. If you can go on drinking coffee and feel no evil effects, why—bless your heart, keep it up—but there are hundreds of thousands who have quit coffee and now use —the pure food-drink.

They know from the better health that follows, that freedom from the drug, caffeine, in coffee makes life brighter and happier.

Postum is made of wheat and a bit of molasses—has a rich, snappy flavour much like that of mild Java coffee, yet contains no caffeine or other harmful element.

Postum comes in two forms. The original Postum Cereal requires boiling; Instant Postum is soluble. A level teaspoonful in a cup of boiling water makes a delicious drink—Instantly. Cost per cup is about the same for both kinds.

Personally, the change to Postum is a little thing to do. The benefit is great.

TUESDAY EVENING, DEC. 14, 1915.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION.

Workmen's Compensation is on its way. The state has announced its schedule of rates. The schedule shows some wide variations, but it is based on the experience of other states, which in turn based their rates upon the experience of other states and of accident insurance companies. The variations may be assumed to be backed by excellent reasons, albeit some of them are rather startling.

The rate for a miner is 10 cents. This is a case where there will be some trouble in paying the overhead charge along on the surface of buying and selling conditions where the rates of the furnaces are already so difficult at times as to render the rate of any margin of profit very difficult. Similar conditions have existed in the merchant coke trade. The rates for mining risks have not yet been announced, but it is probable that they will be found such as will make some operators think seriously of carrying their own insurance if permitted by the state to do so.

The liability companies are making a great scramble for the business and their agents are not always representing the situation accurately. Some of the latter have held out the idea that the state offers no real insurance because the law is unconstitutional, and that those who insure with the state will have no protection and no means of recovering the premiums they have paid. It is true that as a general proposition the state is sovereign and may not be sued in the courts without its consent, but nobody questions the giving of that consent, or in the present case of the refunding of the premiums in case the courts should declare the law unconstitutional because of its discrimination in favor of various classes of labor and against others.

The Courier holds no brief for the state, nor is it the agent of any mutual company of whom there are many. It believes the employer is safe in placing his insurance with the state, though there may be circumstances which render it more desirable for him to place it elsewhere or to carry it himself.

THE PATH OF AN ORGON.

The Uniontown Record, organ of uplift and reform, has laid down the path and given up the ghost. The Record announced that it would be an unbiased newspaper, but the chief trouble with it was too much biased. It is perhaps not too much to say that it was pretty nearly biased to death.

The Record, however, was a case of the unsound of the mind. This is not intended as a harsh criticism. The newspaper field in Uniontown was filled with good newspapers. In the hands of the editors and managers, Editor Wiley's effort was a good one, but he encountered entrenched excellence, and against it he was unable to attain any success.

The Record's fate is not without its moral. A newspaper is much like a political party. It must have the support of the people or it does not go. An established newspaper, with enterprise and ability is popular with the people and cannot be broken down by any new venture which means money may see fit to set up in the community.

In newspaper circles as well as out, it is a well established rule that a good name is better than riches.

LESSONS OF SAVING.

The saving of $65,000 by people of Connelville as a Christmas fund means more to the whole community than simply making provision for the enjoyment of a holiday season. While the saving was done for the purpose of spending by individuals for their own amusement and their friends' delight, it has served as an avenue for the encouragement of thrift in the community.

The savers have learned a valuable lesson in foresightfulness. They have found it comparatively easy to deny themselves trifling, unnecessary and sometimes harmful things in order to keep their Christmas fund alive and growing. They have acquired the habit of saving and learned the value of it.

They now know that money grows while it works, and that to have money one must save it.

There are more deer in Fayette county than in Uniontown. They come right down into Uniontown Park, South Connelville, and visit the skaters. Come to Connelville for deer.

The county institute is something of a style show.

The appeal of the Salvation Army for clothing for the poor families should be heeded. The Salvation Army knows better how to advise a poorer class than most people or other agencies.

China is Shi a president.

The United States Steel Corporation has provided a plan for its employees to buy stock. Every two weeks it provides means for carrying out the plan.

Uniontown has the "T. Chet's" Institute and the Courier. Let us see what it is to Uniontown for chickens.

The Good Roads movement will show much speed and bottom in Northern Fayette county next year if properly favored.

Senator Tillman of South Carolina is found in the limelight, and brings a reminder to that his recovery from a serious illness was prompt and gratifying after he had been bedridden on his plea that he desired to die in the harness.

That commandeered Canada wheat was not taken for speculation. Seven million bushels of it are already afloat. It is needed to feed the Allies.

The Christmas tree is ripe.

Company D will undergo expert inspection as to preparedness and we believe the boys will come out upstanding.

Looks like Christmas weather.

Mount Pleasant will dedicate a new church. No wonder she wants the railroad to put her back in the passenger schedules.

Christmas will be here next week, and older folks will not be allowed to forget the fact.

The furnace interest ought to take additional testimony in the slag cases at Connelville just now.

If the President's war tax on bank checks becomes a law, Senator Tillman says that the people who write them will curse the Democrat party every time they tick a stamp. Later they'll tick the Democrat party.

The clever Japs are helping Santa Claus out with his Christmas orders.

Connellville doesn't like the taste of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad's improvement east of Connelville.

The Thompson rehabilitation stories sound very much like guesses, and some of them poor ones at that.

The Ark of the Lord and of Henry Ford is getting militant as it approaches the zone of belligerency. Perhaps belligerency is contagious.

The Republican line-up in Congress is particularly complete and it will be wholly so at the polls in 1916.

The European war has boomed the American bottle trade, which shows that the bottle is not necessarily associated with booze.

Collars

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Bismarck."

Much has been said about the subject of collars but not all of it can be repeated here with propriety. Collars were invented in the sixteenth century along with thumb-screws and other deadly implements. At that time the collar consisted of a wide starched ruff and after a man had worn these ruffs for a few years, he gladly committed treason and submitted to the axe with pleasure and relief.

Execution was, in fact, a favorite method of removing the early Elizabethan collar, but how it was put on still remains a mystery. Scientists are too timid to believe, however, that the collar was slipped over the victim's head in infancy and that he was compelled to grow up inside of it.

Later on the collar was modified in severity until now it is only a minor affliction like the toothache. The modern collar is made of four-ply linen, reinforced with starch. This gives it stiffness enough to save the epiglottis in two under favorable conditions, but at the same time does not prevent it from being mangled rapidly and successfully in a laundry. Thanks to the laundry, the collar is short lived. This is its only virtue. Before the war it was so stiff that one collar intensely, it has gone to the rag-bag.

The collar comes in various shapes, including the white wing, the chin scratcher and the modified cut, and is attached to the middle of the shirt by two collar buttons. To install the collar, the patient inserts the button in the neck-band of the shirt with thumbs and forefingers. He then slips around behind himself and attaches the middle of the collar to the neck collar button with the aid of a Jimmy and a button-hook. Then, holding one end of the collar button which he holds in place with his knees and buttocks, the end with both hands and a couple of finger nails. He then crosses the remaining end of the collar and stretches it until it reaches around to the forward button. Reaching the button, he inserts his Adam's apple, he trims out the button hole with a thumbnail, presses it against the collar button with one foot and gradually works it home with both hands and his teeth. Much of the English language was invented during the stress of putting a starched collar on a stiff and one-half neckband.

Collars are white and beautiful like sepiolites. They are useful because of the vast quantities of seaweed, angular, red and flabby necks which they hide from the public. If nature, however, had given collars from the sepiolite-birds as she has given the neckband, the world would have been a much more civilized life much more worth living for men.

COLUMBIA GRAFONOLA

THE Columbia Grafonola is a musical instrument of magnificent range and power, yet capable of the utmost delicacy of expression.

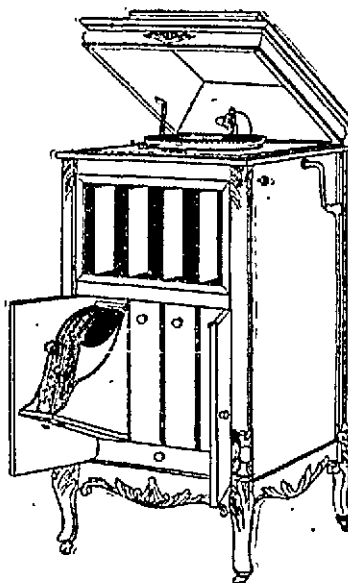

The wonderful Columbia sound-chamber, as responsive to every slightest vibration as the body of a cello; the sensitive Columbia reproducer; the perfected tone-arm and the tone-control "leaves" that operate on the principle of an organ's shutter—all exclusive Columbia features, representing the highest developments of acoustic science—give the Columbia Grafonola a clearness and flexibility of tone not even approximated in any sound-reproducing instrument heretofore devised.

The musicianly qualities of the Columbia Grafonola, and the matchless fidelity of Columbia records have made both pre-eminently the choice of musicians of discrimination. "Hearing is Believing." That is the final test.

Dealers will be glad to arrange for a demonstration in your home.

B. & O. MEN WILL GET ANOTHER PAY BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Railroad Men to Get Some Money to Complete Christmas Purchases.

FEW WILL GET A HOLIDAY

Task of Traffic Makes It Almost Certain That Majority of the Employees Will Have to be on the Job Christmas Day; Shops and Rip Men Busy.

The employees of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will have another pay before Christmas. The division headquarters here have not been notified of just what date the men will be paid on, but it will probably be on December 23 or 24.

The employees have received one pay this month, the check being handed out Friday, Saturday and Sunday of last week. That money can be used by the employees for their Christmas shopping, if needed, and the checks just before Christmas will enable them to finish up their buying before Christmas eve.

Most of the employees here will have to enjoy Christmas during the hours allotted them for rest, as but a few are fortunate enough to be allowed to lay off on that day. Some shop employees may get off but it will be hard to relieve any railroaders. Train crews now are working steadily and are called as soon as they have had the required eight hours of rest.

The rip track gang is working steadily also. All old cars that can be repaired are being pushed on the track in order to get more cars to cover the service. These men do not stand any chance of laying off on Christmas, as every car repaired now counts a whole lot in helping to fill up the deficiency.

SNOW AFFECTS TRAFFIC

The railroads will have a much harder time in keeping trains moving now that the snow has arrived. The drawing power of an engine will be greatly decreased and a train formerly composed of 100 cars will now be reduced to 60, or the drawing power of the locomotive, reduced 10%. The effect will be greatly felt here as any slight delay starts a congestion. It will now be necessary to either reduce the number of cars in a train or to add a number to make up the loss of power. If a pushing is used it will mean another crew.

This decrease of efficiency will not be felt so much when the big "28" type engines are put into service here. These engines have double the pulling power of the engine now used and can easily pull a string of cars that would have to be cut down in the winter for other locomotives.

Whooping Cough

"The disease I most dread is Whooping Cough, for children are often permanently injured by the awful straining of the cough. You should never neglect it, and treatment should be started at the first symptom. You cannot mistake the symptoms: protracted coughing, worse at night; peculiar whoop; labored expectoration of mucus; apparent suffocation after coughing.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a positive remedy for this disease—repeat the dose frequently, for if given freely it liquefies the tough mucus, makes it easy to expectorate and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. There is no danger whatever from Whooping Cough when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given."

Yours for Health.—J. M. Chamberlain.

IS YOUR COMB FULL OF FALLEN HAIR? What to Do When Hair Comes Out.

Loose hairs in your comb and brush is Nature's way of waving a red flag in your face to tell you that your hair and scalp are losing vitality and that it is time you did something for them. Don't disregard the warning. A little attention now may mean long, thick, luxuriant hair for you for years to come. A little further neglect and thin, dry, dull, lifeless, brittle hair and finally baldness may result. To double the scalp's vitality with vibrant energy—to make every hair on your head healthy—get a package of Parisian Sage from A. A. Clarke or any good druggist in town and rub a little into your scalp with the finger tips.

Parisian Sage acts directly on the entire cell life of the hair—from root to tip—helping healthy growth and stimulating a beautiful glossy texture and glorious luxuriance in the hair. Quickly your hair stops coming out on brush and comb—how it is easier to handle and dress and how all signs of itching or dandruff quickly disappear. It is not expensive.—Adv.

WOMEN SEE WILSON. Both Suffragists and Anti's Visit the President.

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The White House today was the scene of women leaders of both camps in the fight for suffrage. The first delegation received by the President came from the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage which held its annual meeting yesterday and was headed by Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge of New York.

Several hundred members of the National American Women Suffrage Association under the leadership of Dr. Anna Howard Shaw were to call on the President late today. Mrs. Dodge in a short address thanked the President for having declared that suffrage was an issue which the states rather than Congress should determine. The President made no response as the 20 women of the party began shaking hands as soon as Mrs. Dodge had finished.

We have been so busy during the past week that we have not had time to announce the opening of the 1916 Christmas Savings Club. The Club opens formally on the 20th of December, but you can join any time from now on during the next thirty days.

It is hardly necessary to enter into an explanation of the idea and objects of the Club. It is so well known to the majority of Conneltsville people. If you don't know how it operates, call at the bank, we will be glad to explain it.

During the three years which the Club has operated we have mailed checks to 7,500 people, aggregating $150,000. Some of these people have opened savings accounts and now have substantial balances to their credit.

We invite you to join the 1916 Club. It is a good thing to do.

HOW TO ERADICATE ALL SUPERFLUOUS HAIR Advice by a Skin Specialist.

The best means I have ever found for removing all signs of disfiguring growths of hair on the face, neck, arms or hands, is a new preparation called Mrs. Osgood's Wonder. I have recommended it in thousands of cases and I know personally of its ability to banish every hair forever. It cannot injure the skin or complexion and is quite inexpensive.

You can get Mrs. Osgood's Wonder from Lauchrey Drug Company or any up-to-date druggist. Signed Money-Back Guarantee with every package. Do not apply this treatment except where total destruction of hair is desired.—Adv.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to the good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Scotch capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

It costs little, is absolutely harmless and I am sure a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat. A. A. Clarke can supply you.

PETEE DINK—Never Mind, Petey, the Store Closes at Eleven O'clock.

By C. A. Voight.

The SEA WOLF

JACK LONDON

We walked to the break of the poop, where she turned and faced me. I glanced around to see that no one was within hearing distance.

"What is it?" I asked gently, but the expression of determination on her face did not relax.

"I can readily understand," she began, "that this morning's affair was largely an accident; but I have been talking with Mr. Haskins. He tells me that the day we were rescued, even while I was in the cabin, two men were drowned, deliberately drowned—murdered."

"There was a query in her voice, and she faced me accusingly, as though I were guilty of the deed, or at least a party to it."

"The information is quite correct," I answered. "The two men were murdered."

"And you permitted it?" she cried. "I was unable to prevent it, it is a better way of phrasing it," I replied, still gently.

"But you tried to prevent it?" There was an emphasis on the "tried," and a pleading little note in her voice.

"Oh, but you didn't," she hurried on, dividing my answer. "But why didn't you?"

I shrugged my shoulders. "You must remember, Miss Brewster, that you are a new inhabitant of this little world, and that you do not yet understand the laws which operate within it. You bring with you certain fine conceptions of humanity, manhood, conduct, and such things; but here you find them misconceptions. I have found it so," I added, with an involuntary sigh.

She shook her head incredulously. "What would you advise, then?" I asked. "That I should take a knife, or a gun or an ax, and kill this man?" She half started back.

"No, not that!"

"Then what should I do? Kill myself?"

"You speak in purely materialistic terms," she objected. "There is such a thing as moral courage, and moral courage is never without effect."

"Ah," I smiled, "you advise me to kill neither him nor myself, but to let him kill me." I held up my hands as she was about to speak. "For once at courage is a worthless asset on this little floating world. Look, one of the men who were murdered, had moral courage to an unusual degree. So had the other man, Johnson. Not only did it not stand them in good stead, but it destroyed them. And so with me if I should exercise what little moral courage I may possess."

"You must understand, Miss Brewster, and understand clearly, that this man is a monster. He is without conscience. Nothing is sacred to him, nothing is too terrible for him to do. It was due to his whim that I was drowned aboard in the first place. It is due to his whim that I am still alive. I do nothing, can do nothing, because I am a slave to this monster, as you are now a slave to him; because I do not live, as you will desire to live; because I cannot fight and overcome him, just as you will not be able to fight and overcome him."

She waited for me to go on.

"Dispense with all the moral courage you can," I said briefly. "Don't arouse this man's animosity. Be quite friendly with him, talk with him, discuss literature and art with him—he is fond of such things. You will find him an interested listener and no fool. And for your own sake try to avoid witnessing, as much as you can, the brutalities of the ship. It will make it easier for you to act your part."

"I am to lie," she said in steady, rebellious tones, "by speech and action to lie?"

Wolf Larsen had separated from Latimer and was coming toward us.

him an interested listener and no fool. And for your own sake try to avoid witnessing, as much as you can, the brutalities of the ship. It will make it easier for you to act your part."

"I am to lie," she said in steady, rebellious tones, "by speech and action to lie?"

Wolf Larsen had separated from Latimer and was coming toward us. I was desperate.

"Please, please understand me," I said hurriedly, lowering my voice. "All your experience of men and things is worthless here. You have already managed me with your eyes, commanded me with them. Don't try it on Wolf Larsen. You could as easily control a lion, while he would make a mock of you. He would—I have always been proud of the fact that I discovered him," I said, turning the conversation as Wolf Larsen stopped on the poop and joined us. "The editors were afraid of him and the publishers would have none of him. But I knew, and his genius and my judgment were vindicated when he made that magnificent hit with his 'Forge'."

"And it was a newspaper poem," she said slyly.

"It did happen to see the light in a newspaper," I replied, "but not because the magazine editors had been denied a glimpse at it."

"We were talking of Harris," I said to Wolf Larsen.

"Oh, yes," he acknowledged. "I remember the 'Forge.' Filled with pretty sentiments and an almighty faith in human illusions. By the way, Mr. Van Weyden, you'd better look in on Cooky. He's complaining and restless."

Thus was I bluntly dismissed from the poop, only to find Murgidgo stooping roundly from the morphine I had given him. I made no haste to return on deck, and when I did I was gratified to see Miss Brewster in animated conversation with Wolf Larsen. As I say, the sight gratified me. She was following my advice. And yet I was conscious of a slight shock or hurt in that she was able to do the thing I had begged her to do and which she had notably disliked.

CHAPTER XX.

Brave winds, blowing fair, swiftly drove the Ghost northward into the seal herd. The hunting was perilous; but the boys, lowered day after day, were swallowed up in the gray obscurity, and were seen no more till nightfall, and often not till long after, when they would creep in like sea-wraiths, one by one, out of the gray. Wainwright, the hunter whom Wolf Larsen had stolen with boat and men, took advantage of the veiled sea and escaped. He disappeared one morning in the encircling fog with his two men, and we never saw them again, though it was not many days when we learned that they had passed from welcome to schooner until they finally reached their own.

This was the thing I had set my mind upon doing, but the opportunity never offered. It was not in the mate's province to go out in the boats, and though I maneuvered cunningly for it, Wolf Larsen never granted me the privilege. Had he done so, I should have managed somehow to carry Miss Brewster away with me. As it was, the situation was approaching a stage which I was afraid to consider. I involuntarily shunned the thought of it, and yet the thought continually arose in my mind like a haunting specter.

I had read sea romances in my time, wherein figured, as a matter of course, the lone woman in the midst of a shipload of men; but I learned, now, that I had never comprehended the deeper significance of such a situation—the thing the writers harped upon and exploited so thoroughly. And here it was, now, and I was face to face with it. That it should be as vital as possible, it required no more than that the woman should be Maud Brewster, who now charmed me in person as she had long charmed me through her work.

No one more out of environment could be imagined. She was a delicate, ethereal creature, swaying and willowy, light and graceful of movement. It never occurred to me that she walked, or, at least, walked after the ordinary manner of mortals. Here was an extreme litheness, and she moved with a certain indefinable airiness, approaching one as down might float or as a bird on noiseless wings.

She was in striking contrast to Wolf Larsen. Each was outside that the other was, everything that the other was not. I noted them walking the deck together one morning, and I likened them to the extreme ends of the human ladder of evolution—the one the culmination of all savagery, the other the finished product of the finest civilization.

But this day, as I noted them pacing up and down, I saw that it was his eyes that I saw the cause of her perturbation. Ordinarily gray and cold and harsh, they were now warm and soft and golden, and all advance with the tiny lights that dimmed and faded, or welled up till the full orbs were flooded with a glowing radiance. Perhaps it was to this that the golden color was due; but golden his eyes were, enticing and masterful, at the same time turing and compelling, and speaking a demand and clamor of the blood which no woman, much less Maud Brewster, could misunderstand.

At the Theatres

BOISSON THEATRE.

"BUSINESS IS BUSINESS."—The most famous comedian on two continents, Nat Goodwin, will appear at the Boisson Theatre today in the divert French drama, "Business is Business." The play and star are the best that will come to the Boisson. Nat Goodwin, who recently cancelled his engagement to go on tour in "Never Say Die" to appear in Universal moving pictures, is featured in "Business is Business," a five-act photoplay adapted by P. McGraw Willis from Octave Mirbeau's famous French tragedy and produced by Otto Thier, director of "Dumet" and "Thylla" and the Universal photoplay school. "The Black Box." Helen Holmes comes in a two-act fiction drama of the rail, produced by J. P. McGowan. "A Dangerous Lesson." Leaving from the top of a depot in a speeding train, "Choo Choo" Helen cuts off the escape of the crooks, recovers a batch of stolen mail and frees her brother from a cloud of suspicion which hangs over him. "The Mirror of Justice" is a beautiful drama with Sydney Ayres and Doris Fawn in the lead. "Inside Facts" is a Laemmle drama with Jack Nelson in the lead. "Tomorrow, the famous five-act play, 'Upstairs,' from one of the famous poems, will be the attraction.

ARCADIE THEATRE.

"CHILDREN OF EVE."—When Henry Clay Madison lent himself to a mild flirtation in a boarding house, he little realized that in after years, when he attained wealth, social standing and apparently happiness, that that flirtation would be recalled to his mind in a most startling, tragic manner. The tale of flirtation and its sequel is told in "Children of Eve," an Edison photo-drama, released through the Kline-Edison Feature Service at the Arcadie Theatre today. A woman's wonderful love, cherished as a sacred thing by her, even though she was a woman of the world, proved the germinating seed for a tragically involving lives of at least three persons and carrying only sorrow and death with it.

Viola Dana, Edison star, in this masterpiece proves conclusively her mastery of her chosen art.

Tomorrow, the famous five-act play, "Upstairs," from one of the famous poems, will be the attraction.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"THE EXPLORER."—A Paramount attraction in five acts, presenting Lou Tellegen, supported by an all star cast, is being presented today at the Globe. The picture is a late Paramount release, and is interesting with wonderful success. The scenic effects are especially beautiful and the story intensely interesting. Helen Gibson is appearing in a great railroad drama, "A Mile a Minute." The picture is one of a series of the "Mile a Minute" series, and is a most interesting and absorbing to the end. Music will be rendered this evening by Kiefer's orchestra. Tomorrow Harry Morey, a popular screen actor will be seen in "The Woman in the Box," a Vitaphone drama in two acts.
